

RIVOIRA SpA

SOLUTIONS AND TECHNOLOGY FOR THE PHARMACEUTICAL INDUSTRY

Founded in 1920, RIVOIRA was one of the first companies to operate in the industrial gases sector in Italy.

Today it is part of multinational group, PRAXAIR, the world leader in gas production and distribution and the development of new technologies. Continuous exchange of information with this great multinational entity (all part of an ongoing process of innovation), gives rise to the most advanced solutions enabling a growing number of Clients to reach their objectives of improved quality and production, coupled with reductions in environmental impact and costs.

With its own products (oxygen, nitrogen, argon, carbon dioxide, helium, rare gases, pure gases, special gases, medical gases, refrigerant gases and dry ice), its own technologies and experience, RIVOIRA offers its services as a partner with high value added solutions.

Biotechnologies, the production of APIs, manufacturing on behalf of third parties, management of and respect for the environment, REACH; the pharmaceutical industry signifies all this and more for Rivoira.

The Italian Pharmaceutical industry is travelling at break-neck speed, driven towards growing specialisation. Biotechnologies are now being selected more and more to substitute mass produced pharmaceuticals. The manufacture of extremely high value added batches also requires specialised technologies for their handling, management and the supply of industrial gases. Given this scenario, Rivoira's goal is to remain in step with the advances in biotechnologies so as to always be a point of reference for the sector for all its needs linked to the use of industrial gases.

Rivoira understands the needs of the chemical & pharmaceutical and biotechnology industries and is able to supply reliable process solutions, and is capable of responding to peculiar demands in terms of productivity, security, environment and logistics.
